

New Look AST Web Page

To access the updated dedicated AST web page go to www.ncsl.org.uk

Username and passwords have been issued to ASTs

If you do not have yours, e-mail Arthur Cross, the page's new facilitator, on arthur.cross@vtplc.com and he will send you your username and tell you how to get your password

- We have carried out research to ensure that the AST page on the National College for School Leadership website provides what ASTs really want from a dedicated AST web page.
- As a result we have learned that contact with other ASTs, working in the same curriculum area, and know whose brains it would be worth picking when faced with something new, should be the first criteria for updating the page.

ALL ASTs

Please enter your details on the AST page

Alternatively: send the information below to Arthur Cross at arthur.cross@vtplc.com

PLUS: three or more developments / issues / facts with which you have been involved (headlines only)

This will then be available to all AST colleagues on the web page

Name	School and phase	Local Authority	Specialism	Preferred E-mail
Headline 1
Headline 2
Headline 3

Arthur will alert you at your e-mail address when there is a topic of likely interest to you.

Other new developments

The AST page also has a forum for putting your questions on-line to the AST community. Later in the year colleagues from the DfES will occupy a "Hot Seat" to take your questions. If you want another topic/person in the "Hot Seat" let Arthur know and he will try to provide it. He also welcomes your comments.

The route to the AST page is www.ncsl.org.uk, log into the Learning Gateway, one click "talk2learn", one click "NCSL in Dialogue", go to bottom right of screen where you will see talk2learn links and the link to the AST page
