Millions of people will benefit from specific support to look for work, acquire new skills and progress into better-paid jobs.

Parents, over-fifties, disabled people, and those with long-term health conditions will have opportunities arising from changes announced in the Budget set to be delivered by the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP).

Overall, DWP measures at Budget represent an investment of £3.5 billion over five years to boost workforce participation and grow the economy. That includes:

£2 billion investment in support for disabled people and people with long-term health conditions

£900 million investment in support for parents on Universal Credit

£70 million investment in support for over-fifties

£485 million investment in support for unemployed people and people who are on Universal Credit and working fewer than full time hours.

Government drive to help workers on Universal Credit boost prospects

Over 1.2 million low-income earners on Universal Credit can now tap into additional support to help secure promotions and higher wages.

DWP ramps up drive to help low earners increase their wages and encourage employers to support career progression.

Universal Credit claimants are securing job promotions and better pay after local Jobcentres step in with specialist In Work Progression support.

Network of specialist Progression Leads are in place across England, Scotland and Wales who work with local skill providers to develop tailored opportunities.

The support known as the In Work Progression offer has rolled out across all Great Britain and includes help with CVs and signposting to skills provision.

More people set to benefit from free support to help claim Universal Credit

An extra £22 million has been invested to extend free and impartial support for people making a Universal Credit claim.

The 'Help to Claim' support will continue independently for another year by Citizens Advice and Citizens Advice Scotland, following a further £22 million investment by the department. Citizens Advice have provided the Help to Claim support since its inception in 2019.

This additional investment will ensure that support is available to help people make a new Universal Credit claim and manage their claim until they receive their first payment.

People given more time for voluntary National Insurance Contributions

The Government has extended the voluntary National Insurance deadline to 31 July 2023 to give people more time to fill gaps in their National Insurance record and help increase the amount they receive in State Pension.

As part of transitional arrangements to the new State Pension, people have been able to make voluntary contributions to any incomplete years in their National Insurance record between April 2006 and April 2016, to help increase the amount they receive when they retire.

Launch of life-saving public emergency alerts

A new system that will give the Government and emergency services the capability to send an alert directly to mobiles phones when there is a risk to life has been launched today.

UK-wide Emergency Alerts service launched and in operation from 19 March 2023

System will bolster the UK's resilience and provides the capability to send alerts direct to mobile phones when there is a risk to life

UK-wide test to take place on Sunday 23 April 2023

Working with mobile broadcasting technology, the Emergency Alerts system will transform the UK's warning and informing capability; providing a means to get urgent messages quickly to 90 percent of mobile phones in a defined area; providing clear instructions about how best to respond.

The system is now ready to be evaluated across the country following successful tests in East Suffolk and Reading, as the Government continues to strengthen its resilience capability, making sure it offers the best possible protection against an ever-evolving range of threats.

A UK-wide alerts test will take place in the early evening of Sunday 23 April which will see people receive a test message on their mobile phones.

Big Screens to go up across the country to show Coronation

More than 30 UK locations will host big screens to show the Coronation, the Culture Secretary Lucy Frazer announced.

More than £1 million has been made available by the Department for Culture, Media, and Sport for the screens. Confirmed sites include Cardiff Castle, Belfast City Hall, Piece Hall in Halifax, Jubilee Square in Brighton, and Piccadilly Gardens in Manchester.

It will mean thousands of people can come together at public screenings to celebrate this historic moment in towns and cities across the four nations of the UK.

The Coronation of His Majesty the King and Her Majesty the Queen Consort takes place on Saturday 6 May 2023 at Westminster Abbey in London. Their Majesties will be crowned in the same location as Her Late Majesty the Queen 70 years ago.

Tik Tok banned on UK government devices as part of wider app review

Social media app TikTok has been banned on government electronic devices, the Cabinet Office announced on 16 March 2023.

The ban comes after Cabinet Office Ministers ordered a security review. This looked at the potential vulnerability of government data from social media apps on devices and risks around how sensitive information could be accessed and used by platforms.

Given the potentially sensitive nature of information, which is stored on government devices, government policy on the management of third-party applications will be strengthened and a precautionary ban on TikTok on government devices is being introduced.

The underlying data is available at local authority district and regional level in addition to the LSIP, Local Enterprise Partnership (LEP) and Mayoral Combined Authority (MCA) breakdowns.

Voter ID Campaign

The Government has introduced a requirement for voters to show photo identification (ID) when voting at a polling station at some elections.

This new requirement will apply for the first time at the local elections taking place in some areas of England on Thursday 4 May 2023.

Anyone who does not have an accepted form of photo ID will be able to apply for a free voter ID document, known as a Voter Authority Certificate.

Organisations working directly with voters, including local authorities and charities, can play an important role in supporting voters to ensure they have photo ID ahead of the elections.

The Electoral Commission has created Click here to read for organisations in England. They are designed to help raise awareness, and to support people to apply for a Voter Authority Certificate, ahead of the local elections in May 2023. The packs also include information on voter registration.

UK and New Zealand expand schemes for young people to work abroad Click Here

The Youth Mobility and Working Holiday schemes have been expanded so more young people will be eligible to live and work in both countries for longer.

Young Brits and New Zealanders will benefit from life-changing opportunities on the other side of the world thanks to the expansion of our shared visa schemes.

From 29 June 2023, the age limit for New Zealand applicants coming to the UK will go up from 30 to 35 years old and the maximum length of time people can stay in their host country will be extended to 3 years.

For Brits wanting to take advantage of the scheme in New Zealand, the age range will be increased on 1 July 2023, and they will be able to work throughout their stay of up to 3 years.

Boost for bus, coach and HGV driver recruitment with proposed reforms to training rules Click Here

Numbers of HGV (heavy goods vehicle) bus and coach drivers could be boosted through proposed reforms to driver training rules, further supporting the United Kingdom's (UK) vital supply chain and economic growth.

Some of the proposed changes aim to help make it more affordable and more efficient for drivers to renew their qualifications or return to the industry. With the UK's newfound freedoms having left the European Union, the government is exploring how to best improve the Driver Certificate of Professional Competence (DCPC) to increase flexibility and choice for drivers to help safeguard road safety and support the industry in retaining and recruiting staff.
